

BARR™

Same Students. Same Teachers.

Better Results.

BARR Trainer & Coach

The BARR Trainer and Coach role is responsible for the successful delivery of Building Assets, Reducing Risks \(BARR\) training to groups of educators across the United States. The position has primary responsibility for providing direct services to schools (may require travel depending on locations), including training and coaching supports. The role will serve as an implementation and subject matter expert for the model as they support schools seeking to implement the BARR model with fidelity.

1. Implement training, coaching, and consultation services for the BARR model.
  - Work directly with customers to assess needs and deliver high-quality training or consultation services to meet the customer needs.
  - Travel to BARR schools throughout the country as assigned.
  - Design, develop, maintain, and deliver training through a variety of tools and methods including online content, in-person, classroom, and delivery through the web and other technologies.
  - Develop and utilize training techniques and processes that will ensure that programs delivered will meet or exceed our client's expectations for a leading national professional training organization.
  - Document and track attendance, evaluate and continuously improve training methods and materials to ensure learning objectives are achieved.
  - Work closely with solutions staff to execute on training delivery.

2. Participate on project teams as required.
  - Participate in project team meetings.
  - Perform tasks as assigned in the project plan.
  - Provide ongoing communication to program manager, team lead, team members or all stakeholders, on status of project assignments.

Same Students. Same Teachers. Better Results.

- Work in partnership with the program manager to ensure appropriate updates and deliverables.

Required Qualifications:

- Bachelor's degree in education or related field
- 5+ years of experience in the K-12 education field

Preferred Qualifications:

- Master's degree in education, health, human services, counseling or related field.
- Experience teaching in an elementary, secondary or post-secondary setting
- History of working on research projects and familiarity with research protocols
- Experience implementing prevention programming in the context of education systems and community prevention

If interested in applying, please reach out via email to Jennifer Remick.

When official jobs are posted, you will be able to get more information and apply here.